Playing Golf During Covid-19

Introduction

This guide has been prepared in consultation with national governing bodies and outline the robust, monitored measures Saffron Walden Golf Club will put in place to manage and maintain a safe environment for our staff and customers during the COVID-19 pandemic. For golfers, the measures cover each step of the journey from home to 1st tee and back home again. At the golf courses, these measures are in place from dawn until dusk, seven days a week.

Golfers are responsible for their own health and must continue to practice social distancing as laid down by government guidelines. By obeying the social distancing rules, you should keep you, fellow golfers, family, friends safe, protecting the NHS and saving lives.

We believe that we can do this and allow golfers to enjoy the game in a safe environment which will provide mental and physical health benefits to improve the wellbeing of our members.

Our measures and procedures are under constant review, updated as advice from government, health authorities and governing bodies evolves in line with the gradual lifting of social restrictions.

1. Course Access

In the initial period following a club's re-opening, access to the course was limited to our staff and club members. With more availability members guest and visitors have been permitted at certain times.

- Not be displaying Covid-19 symptoms
- Have a pre-reserved tee time
- Not be in self-isolation
- Players in vulnerable groups, shielding or over the age of 70 should take particular care to minimise contact with others outside their household
- Green Keepers will have priority on the course at all time to allow the staff to prepare the course.
